TOWRY TO SUPPORT THE PRINCE'S TRUST

Towry, the Wealth Advisers, is pleased to announce that its charitable trust, the Towry Charitable Trust (TCT), is now a Patron of The Prince's Trust. Towry works in many of the areas where The Prince's Trust helps disadvantaged young people, and hope that this close geography will help with the assistance it can provide.

There are more than one million young people in the UK not in education, employment or training. The Prince's Trust gives these disadvantaged young people the skills, confidence and qualifications to find a job. More than three in four young people on Prince's Trust schemes go onto work, education or training.

The Towry Charitable Trust has a heritage in supporting the charitable activities of Towry employees over many years but this new association with The Prince's Trust marks a significant increase in its charitable activity. The TCT has been able to provide this support because of a significant donation from Towry. It will continue to support Towry employees' charitable activities.

Andrew Fisher, CEO of Towry said: "We are delighted that our charitable trust is able to support The Prince's Trust and, in particular, its Development Awards programme which gives young people small grants to help them into work, education or training. We share many locations with The Prince's Trust programmes and so the tie up is an exciting step for our 'Giving Back Programme'. We hope, in a small way, we can contribute to helping young people in the communities in which we work."

Martina Milburn, CEO of The Prince's Trust said: "I am delighted that Towry's charitable trust has committed to becoming a Silver Patron of The Prince's Trust for the next four years. With one in five young people in the UK currently unemployed, the mission of The Prince's Trust is greater than ever. We are extremely excited to be working with Towry and their employees to transform young lives in the communities in which they operate.”
